

THE PROBLEM · PART 1 OF 3

of heirs fire their parents'
wealth manager within a few years of inheriting the account.

Performance is rarely the reason. The service never felt built for them.

THE SQUEEZE

The banks are spending
to win that same client.

S$1B

a year: OCBC's committed AI infrastructure spend to win
affluent clients.

of Singapore and Hong Kong EAMs manage under US$1B, all competing for the same clients.

Boutiques can't match that budget.
They can match the experience.

THE QUESTION

What if every adviser
at your firm could
serve 300+ households
instead of 80?

That's the question Charlie AI was built to answer. Part 2 shows how it works.
